I will sell at public auction to the highest bidder the following stock: The standard bred stallion Manteno No 6862. He is the finest stallion that ever came to this country, has both size and speed. We have his pedigree and several of his colts to show what he is.

A grade Shire stallion, 7 years old, weight 1,500. He is a good stock horse and range broke.

Two Draft mares, six and seven years old, weight 2,500, colts by their side.

Two Draft mares, eight and nine years old, weight 2,700.

The following stock sired by standard bred stallions: Six trotting bred mares, 3 and 10 years old, weight 900 to 1,100 colts by side; 1 dry mare, six years old, weight 1,000; One dry mare, 4 years old, weight 900; Three mares, two years old; One gelding, five years old, weight 1,150; Two geldings, four years old, weight 1000. Two geldings, three years old. Two geldings, one year old.

Two Thoroughbred Hereford Bulls, 3 and 5 years old, they are fine animals. Four Thoroughbred Cows with calves by their side. Three two-year-old Thoroughbred Heifers. 25 high grade cows and heifers, 2 and 5 years old, most of them have calves by their side. 17 yearling steers. 7 yearling heifers.

California Fruits and Flowers

Los Angeles, California.

You may wonder how it happens that being so far south California seems to escape the hot season so general in other parts of the country. This is due to the peculiar formation of the country and the breeze from the ocean which is caused by the Mexican current, the benefit of which we receive at this point altho 20 miles from the coast. There is little or no rain here for 6 or 8 months of the year, but as the rain and snow of the winter season are accumulated in large reservoirs as it flows from the mountains, the water is stored away for summer use, and vegetation is kept green during the dry season by irrigation. Where reservoirs are not accessible, gasoline engines are established on farms and ranches, as abundant water can be secured from wells, and the farmer and fruit grower can irrigate from 5 to 50 acres during the dry season at comparatively small expense. Nature has provided fuel for these pumping plants as there are extensive oil wells even within the limits of this city, and the derricks marking the oil fields dot the scenery for hundreds of miles between here and San Francisco. But coming back to my subject, you can easily understand how, with perpetual sunshine, rich soil and plenty of irrigation, delightful fruits and flowers are produced in abundance.

Southern California has long been noted as a winter resort, for frost is seldom known and flowers grow in abundance at all seasons, but from previous experiment and what I am told by people who have lived here many years, I think the summer season far more enjoyable even though the trees and flowers are not quite so fresh as in the winter on account of the dust.

It is often remarked by Eastern people that California fruit is watery and tasteless compared with northern fruits. This I think is due to a lack of real knowledge on the subject, as I fail to find any fruit that is not fully as delicious here as in any other climate, and the mistaken impression I think arises from the fact that fruit shipped from here East must of necessity be picked and shipped green and allowed to ripen on the way.
The fruit markets here are indeed wonderful compared with any in the East, and strangers will see for the first time many varieties which are practically unknown elsewhere as they are grown for home use being of such delicate texture that they will not stand handling and must be used shortly after they are picked. This pertains to certain varieties of oranges, fresh prunes, nectarines, apricots, peaches, strawberries, red raspberries, loganberries, (a cross between the blackberry and red raspberry), nearly as large as your thumb, and in fact many others too numerous to mention. Speaking of prunes, you who have seen them only in dried form can form little idea of how really delicious a ripe prune can be. It is neither a plum or a peach, and is not, as many suppose the variety which is shipped to the East and looks like a large, dark blue plum, although those you have seen are a certain variety of prunes, but are not the same as the ones we have here.

Price of fruits: Lemons, 5 to 10 cents a doz; for the best oranges, not to exceed 15c (such as cannot be bought in the East for 60c a doz); peaches, the most delicious varieties, from 1 to 3c a lb., which means all that one can possibly eat for 5c and canning peaches are much cheaper; strawberries are 5c a box at the present time, and grow the year around except during January and February when they are a little scarce.

Flowers: I will use our own yard as an illustration, which is by the way, a poor comparison with the average home as we are located very near the heart of the city and have only one lot 50x150 ft. In our front yard we have two palm trees (the same as you grow in the house in gardeners) which are something over 40 feet high, and the trunks between 2 and 3 ft. in diameter. About the base of these trees we have pansy beds which have been in bloom all summer.
At one corner of the house there is a rose bush extending to the eaves some 25 or 30 ft. in height, and in fact the entire border of our yard, amounting to some 300 ft., is lined with roses and geraniums of all descriptions. These flowers are the most common on account of the little care which is necessary to keep them in constant bloom.
Within ten feet of me as I am writing there is a rosebush, which must have an average of a dozen new blooms every morning of the most delicate and peculiar texture I have ever seen either in hot houses or cultivated. And the immense cabbage roses which are supplied by the florists of Omaha would actually look like cabbages compared with the beautiful varieties that grow in almost every yard, comparatively unattended, and only require watering a few times a week.

Yours truly,
DR. SEYMOUR.

ROUND THE WORLD

A Wonderful Trans-Pacific Journey of Six Months via

THE NORTH-WESTERN LINE AND ITS CONNECTIONS.

In line with its well known policy of development of trans-continental and trans-Pacific travel, the Chicago & North-Western Railway is now organizing a personally conducted round-the-world tour, to leave Chicago in October, visiting Hawaii, Japan China, the Straits Settlements, Ceylon, India and Egypt, returning via the usual European points of interest on the way home.

The party will be most admirably provided for en route. The railway trip will be made on luxurious fast trains through the great Mississippi Valley over "the only double track railway between Chicago and the Mississippi River," and west via Denver and through the mountain wonderland of Colorado and Utah. The trip across the Pacific will be on one of the magnificent new Pacific Mail Co's steamers.

This trans-Pacific traffic has grown to such proportions that the service has been improved and elaborated until in many respects it is said to vie with that found on the finest trans-Atlantic greyhounds.

The trans-Pacific route is the coming highway over which American pleasure seekers will travel for recreation and sightseeing. Hawaii, Japan, China, Australia and our own Philippine possessions are full of interest and the number of visitors to these faraway lands increases with the increased facilities for travel.

Dragging Pains

2825 Keeley St.,
CHICAGO, ILL., Oct., 2, 1902.
I suffered with falling and congestion of the womb, with severe pains through the groins. I suffered terribly at the time of menstruation, had blinding headaches and rushing of blood to the brain.
What to try I knew not, for it seemed that I had tried all and failed, but I had never tried Wine of Cardui, that blessed remedy for sick women. I found it pleasant to take and soon knew that I had the right medicine. New blood seemed to course through my veins and after using eleven bottles I was a well woman.
Maudie Bush
Mrs. Bush is now in perfect health because she took Wine of Cardui for menstrual disorders, bearing down pains and blinding headaches when all other remedies failed to bring her relief. Any sufferer may secure health by taking Wine of Cardui in her home.
The first bottle convinces the patient she is on the road to health.
